WaterFire Providence Announces a Full Lighting on Saturday, October 14

Supported by Brown University

Providence, RI WaterFire Providence announces a full lighting this Saturday, October 14, 2023 supported by Brown University. The lighting will begin at 6:06 p.m. and the braziers will remain lit until 11:00 p.m. On shore programming will open at 5:00 p.m.

"WaterFire has become a distinct symbol of Providence's cultural identity and a point of pride for the city," says Mary Jo Callan, Vice President for Community Engagement at Brown University, "We are thrilled to build on our partnership with WaterFire as a sponsor to bring residents and visitors together in community to gather and celebrate this immersive art installation. Brown is deeply committed to working with local partners to contribute to positive impacts for people and communities throughout Rhode Island."

WaterFire Providence will pay tribute to longtime volunteer photographer John Nickerson who sadly passed away earlier this year. A single brazier will be lit in his honor and a display of his WaterFire photography will be shown on a screen in Memorial Park.

WaterFire Marketplace will return to Canal Street, stop by to support WaterFire with a donation or a purchase of locally designed apparel, glassware, books, and gifts. Make a quick and easy donation with the DipJar and glass blowing by Gather Glass. WaterFire will also have additional ambassador and merchandise stations in front of the RISD Auditorium, and both sides of the basin in Waterplace Park.

The WaterFire Arts Festival Plaza will be on Washington Street and Steeple Street, shop this gathering of local artists and makers in mediums such as glass, photography, sculpture, jewelry and more.
